LETTER FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear friends,

Looking back at the National Institute on Retirement Security's 2023, it feels as though we've reached a turning point in the conversation surrounding pensions. NIRS has been at the forefront of this, leading the charge for a "pension renaissance". NIRS members attended the annual conference titled "Progress Amid Turbulence: Building Towards a Secure Retirement", and this turned out to be apt—despite an increasingly polarizing political climate, NIRS was able to cut through the noise on retirement issues and center the facts, all while increasing our reach through membership growth and media coverage.

The 14th Annual Retirement Policy Conference, held in Washington, D.C., was another success, drawing top speakers and bringing together more than 150 attendees —our largest attendance to date—from across the retirement industry to share perspectives and dialogue. Speakers and panelists included government appointees, CEOs, researchers, and investment specialists.

In 2023, NIRS welcomed 12 new members, including three at the Visionary Circle level. This increased support means we will be able to continue to invest our resources in bringing the facts about retirement to the forefront, with our new Visionary Circle members helping to set our research agenda for the coming year.

NIRS published six reports in 2023, including our biannual Pensionomics report as well as two studies on the recruitment and retention issues Alaska faces after changes to benefits. We brought NIRS research to diverse audiences through more than 18 speaking engagements at conferences, meetings, webinars, and workshops put on by various organizations nationwide.

We had an impactful year in media as well—NIRS research was cited more than 3,000 times in publications across the country. I was featured in a CNBC segment about the burgeoning pension renaissance, while NIRS Research Director Tyler Bond was quoted in the New York Times speaking about our research on Generation X.

In this annual report, we have documented this impactful year at NIRS. As we look to 2024, I am optimistic that we can continue building on this progress. We appreciate your continued support.

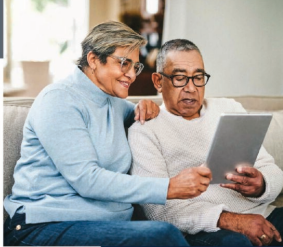

Kind regards,

Dan Doonan
Executive Director

Our Mission

The National Institute on Retirement Security is a non-profit research and education organization established to contribute to informed policymaking by fostering a deep understanding of the value of retirement security to employees, employers, and the economy as a whole.

Our Vision

Through our activities, NIRS seeks to encourage the development of public policies that enhance retirement security in America. Our vision is one of a retirement system that simultaneously meets the needs of employers, employees, and the public interest. That is, one where:

- employers can offer affordable, high quality retirement benefits that help them achieve their human resources goals;
- employees can count on a secure source of retirement income that enables them to maintain a decent living standard after a lifetime of work; and
- the public interest is well-served by retirement systems that are managed in ways that promote fiscal responsibility, economic growth, and responsible stewardship of retirement assets.

Our Approach

- High-quality research that informs the public debate on retirement policy. The research program focuses on the role and value of defined benefit pension plans for employers, employees, and the public at large. We also conduct research on policy approaches and other innovative strategies to expand broad based retirement security.
- Education programs that disseminate our research findings broadly. NIRS disseminates its research findings to the public, policy makers, and the media by distributing reports, conducting briefings, and participating in conferences and other public forums.
- Outreach to partners and key stakeholders. By building partnerships with other experts in the field of retirement research and with stakeholders that support retirement security, we leverage the impact of our research and education efforts. Our outreach activities also improve the capacity of government agencies, non-profits, the private sector, and others working to promote and expand retirement security.
